

International Workshop on Edible Mycorrhizal Mushrooms

TERUEL [SPAIN]
APRIL 12–17, 2027

Dear Edible Mycorrhizal Mushroom Lover,

We are pleased to share the first announcement of the 12th International Workshop on Edible Mycorrhizal Mushrooms (IWEMM12), organised under the international framework of the European Mycological Institute (EMI). The workshop will take place in Teruel, Spain, from 12 to 17 April 2027, followed by a post-conference field trip from 17 to 22 April 2027.

IWEMM12 will bring together scientists, land managers, producers, associations and cooperation networks from around the world. This edition offers a unique opportunity to connect with the international community working on edible mycorrhizal fungi, engage with leading experts, and experience first-hand some of Europe's most emblematic mycological landscapes. The programme combines high-level scientific sessions with participatory workshops, citizen-science activities and field visits.

Congress website and social media

The official website www.iwemm12.com is now available, providing updated information on the programme, venues, sessions, excursions and practical details. It is also being promoted on social media through @europeanmico.

Early expression of interest

To help us plan the logistical needs of the congress, we kindly ask all those potentially interested in participating to complete the pre-registration form available in the Registration section of the website. This early expression of interest is essential for dimensioning transportation, field-trip capacity, venue arrangements and other organisational aspects.

For colleagues unable to access Google services, a Word form and a submission email address are also available in the same section.

Contact

For any questions regarding the programme, logistics, participation or sponsorship, please contact us at info@eumi.eu or via our social media channels.

We look forward to welcoming you to Teruel (Spain) in April 2027 for an inspiring IWEMM12.

Best wishes,

The IWEMM12 Organising Committee
